

ARREST HUNDREDS OF MEN WHO INVADE CHURCH

LEADER IS CHARGED WITH INCITING TO RIOT AND HELD IN $5,000 BAIL

March Into New York Catholic Church While Lenten Service Is In Progress, After Disregarding Warnings of Detectives—Are Given Preliminary Hearing.

New York, March 4.—Several hundred men, who under the leadership of the Industrial Workers of the World, have been marching on church edifices recently, were arrested tonight in St. Alphonsus' Roman Catholic church on West Broadway, after they had disregarded warnings that if they entered the church it would be under peril of arrest. As the men neared the church, detectives informed Frank Tannenbaum, who has headed the demonstrations made during the last few days that if the men entered the building they would do so at their peril. Tannenbaum instead of heeding the advice called on the men to follow him. A lent service was in progress when the men marched in. Women screamed when they saw the intruders, who paying little attention to this quickly occupied seats well in front. When the last of the men had entered the church, the detectives ordered the doors locked. Meanwhile the reserves from near police stations had been called out and patrol wagons from all over the city were rushing to the scene. The necessary preliminary arrangements for this had been made at police headquarters during the day and for this reason action was prompt. As the men marched from Rutgers Square, which has been their meeting place for several nights, policemen who followed them kept headquarters informed of the progress of the crowd, its destination being unknown. When the policemen entered the church building pandemonium ensued. For half an hour there was wildest disorder, due in a measure to the efforts of the police to separate the intruders from the worshippers.

Rev. J. G. Schneider and several other priests, who tried to pacify the men by talking to them, found their good intentions useless. The men were taken from the church in twos and conveyed in patrol wagons to the nearest police stations. Later they were taken to the Domestic Relations Court for a preliminary hearing. Shortly after eleven o'clock the entire delegation gathered for hearing. Tannenbaum was charged with inciting to riot and was held in $5,000 bail. The arraignment of the other prisoners was then proceeded with as rapidly as the clerks could make out the proper papers.

TRANSPLANTS GENERATIVE GLAND OF DEAD MAN TO LIVING MAN'S BODY

Dr. G. Frank Lydston Announces Success of Operation at Meeting of Chicago Medical Society—Makes Transplantation Upon Self.

Chicago, March 4.—Dr. G. Frank Lydston announced tonight at the meeting of the Chicago Medical association that he had successfully transplanted the generative gland of a dead man to the body of a living man. Dr. Lydston said that when he had been unable to find a subject willing to undergo the operation, he had made the transplantation upon himself.

An operation performed on January 16th, 1914, he said, seemed to have been successful and the gland, taken from a young man, eighteen years old, who had been dead seventeen hours, appeared to functionate like an innately gland. Dr. Lydston said the operation if it proves a permanent success, may be a new remedy for Bright's Disease, hardening of the arteries and ailments due to premature senility.

The surgeon said he had been unable to find any record here or in Europe of such an operation ever before having been performed. Dr. Lydston also said he had implanted in a woman of 59 years the generative organs of a woman of 17 years who has been dead from violence twelve hours. This operation he said, had been performed too recently for him to predict results. The wound, however, he said was healing rapidly and the operation gave evidence of being successful.

UNUSUAL PRECAUTIONS ARE TAKEN TO GUARD MORGAN ART COLLECTION

Protective Arrangements Would Make Repetition of Mona Lisa Theft Virtually Impossible.

New York, March 4.—Through the strictest secrecy had developed the measures taken, it became known today that unusual precaution is being exercised by the Metropolitan Museum of art to guard against thieves and fire the $500,000 Morgan collection now on view in that institution. It is said that the protective arrangements which are most elaborate would make virtually impossible a repetition of the Mona Lisa theft in the Louvre Museum, with Raphael's Colonna Madonna, the possible subject in this instance. Fifty special watchmen well armed and two police detectives are the personnel of the elaborate scheme protecting the collection. In addition the latest devices in electrical alarms have been installed connecting fire and police headquarters and the different parts of the building. Ten loud songs and many smaller ones would sound should unauthorized hands touch any of the Morgan art objects, bringing into the room every attendant and all the watchmen in the building. The same means would bring reserves from the nearest police station.

DRAGS NEAR AT HAND FOR FARMERS TO USE

A Large Number of Drags For Morgan County Would go a long way toward keeping roads in good condition. Plan Adopted In Missouri.

Over in Missouri they have adopted a plan in each county for the construction of a large number of drags and these are to be placed along the public highways about two miles apart. In this way, when a farmer has a little time to put the roads in better shape in front of his land, he can do so without going a long way to find a drag.

The spring weather will soon be here and with it the breaking up of the roads. With a few hours work along the public highways when most needed work of the bad roads proposition can be overcome. There are several farmers in Morgan county who take a great interest in dragging the roads and their efforts are highly appreciated by every one.

In speaking of the question of many drags for each county, George F. Kuhlman, chairman of the county Board of Commissioners of Cass county says:

"It is generally conceded that the road drag is the only cheap solution to keep the dirt roads in good condition. It would be a good idea for the road district for townships or county to get interested in the road drag proposition. Now, if this county had about 200 drags of some kind so they would be right at the progressive farmers gate so he would not have to go two or three miles to get one, wouldn't he do a lot of dragging free of charge to the county? Say that we had a drag about two miles apart, that would not be too close, and arrange to have them near some good live farmer's house, he would hitch to that drag and would never say anything about it to any one, but if he has a way to make one himself he is not going to do it.

Now, say that the drags cost from $15.00 to $20.00, for the best that are made. One can buy them much cheaper than that, but the cheapest are not always the best. Suppose this county had 100 drags and they did cost as much as $20, the interest on that amount would be only about $1.00, so the investment would cost $100 per year. Now where are you going to get more road work done for $100, than by having these drags scattered over the county? I will say that the amount of dragging that would be done with these drags free of cost to the county, if charged for at the regular price for such work, would be in excess of $1,000 per year, and these drags will last without any care at least 125 years, so you can see that it is a good investment."

THE INFLUENCE OF TEXT BOOKS IS GREATLY OVER-ESTIMATED

To Improve Schools, Improve the Teaching Force Say Delegates to Meeting of N. E. A. at Richmond—Prof. W. A. Gore Attends.

In the education of the child ten per cent depends upon the methods of teaching and text books used while ninety per cent of educational progress is dependent upon the personality of the teacher, said a speaker in the recent meeting at Richmond, Va., of the superintendents' division of the American Educational association, according to Prof. W. A. Gore city superintendent of schools, who attended the convention and spoke of the above sentiment as the central thought of the three day gathering. "If the character of the teacher is of so great importance to the child's educational well-being the surest way to improve the school today, is to insist upon a high standard of excellence in the teaching force. Some men are conductors of knowledge and seem to electrify the young into a love for learning while other teachers deaden everything they touch and lay a blight upon the mind of the pupil.

Efficiency in Teaching.

Efficiency in teaching was another subject upon which much stress was laid, Mr. Gore said. Instead of judging a teacher by length of service, merely, attention should be given to the quality of the work done and the teacher should be rated by his ability to keep pupils with their classes and up to the mark in their studies. Account should be taken of the actual goods delivered as in the efficiency systems of shop practice worked out by Harrington Emerson and F. W. Taylor.

The power and status of the superintendent has a strong bearing on the question of school efficiency. "Unhampered by politically constituted school boards," one speaker said, "free to make use of his own initiative and endowed with the sole hiring power and power of discharge over his teaching force, as the head of an industrial establishment has jurisdiction over his plant, the progressive school superintendent could perform his duties to the community with much more effect and much more potent results for good." It was suggested by one speaker that school board members be required to serve a year without the power to vote. They would thus have a chance to become acquainted with executive methods and to become familiar with methods of administration.

O. N. BARR RECEIVES FAVOR OF COURT.

Was Sued by Chicago Firm Who Sold Him Device to Regulate Gas Flow.

The Imperial Gas Regulator company of Chicago vs. O. N. Barr, proprietor of the Barr laundry, was the form of a suit which terminated in Justice W. E. Thomson's office yesterday in favor of Mr. Barr. The Chicago company, it is understood, had received contracts to install over 30 devices in the city, which were said to regulate the flow of gas so that twenty per cent could be saved each month. Mr. Barr paid $10 on the device, but upon trial was satisfied that it would not do the work as represented, so refused to pay the balance of $20 on the instrument. As a result the firm entered suit. J. O. Priest represented the complainant and Hugh Green the Regulator company.

Why not see a real vaudeville bill tonight at 10, 20 and 30 cent prices. Seat sale opens at 9 o'clock this morning.

PREPARED FOR LENT

(Whether actuated by religious conviction or motives of health, it is a wise dispensation that calls for a period of abstinence from meats.)

In days ago, the Lenten season may have been one of real deprivation, but now a wealth of Sea Foods is at our command in forms so varied and appetizing, that a change of diet is as welcome as it is refreshing, healthful, nourishing and rejuvenating.

In economy, too, these abundant foods from Oceans, Lakes, and Rivers afford every good reason for encouragement in reducing cost of living.

To this beautiful choice of FISH FOOD, modern conservative methods have provided:

VEGETABLES as fresh, sweet and succulent as if the garden dews were still upon them—

FRUITS of every luscious kind with their rich, ripe flavors preserved in glass and tin—and CEREALS in a bewildering variety of tasty preparations that upbuild brain, bone and brawn.

With this abundance to choose from, well may one exclaim, Abstinence, where is thy rigor.

O, LENT, where is thy sting?

DELINQUENT H. S. STUDENTS WILL BE DROPPED MONDAY

There are but five or six students in the high school who have not paid their tuition. Supt. Gore announced yesterday, and it is probable that more will pay before the end of the week, but on Monday, March 9, all students whose tuition has not been paid will be dropped from the roll. There are in the high school seventy-three tuition pupils from twenty-nine districts of the county. Eleven of these districts are meeting the requirements of the law and appropriating tuition money to pay their pupils' way in high school in the remaining eighteen districts those who have paid have been compelled to go to their own pockets. The new high school tuition law is being enforced in a majority of the counties of Illinois according to educators from various portions of the state whom Mr. Gore interviewed on the matter last week while attending the National Educational Convention at Richmond, Va.

"TAR BABY" IS NOW TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS OLD.

Well Known Nova Scotian Ring Man Began Fighting When Sixteen.

Boston, March 4.—Sam Langford, who has been resting up at his home in this city since he returned from Europe last week, was entertained by a party of old friends today on the occasion of his 28th birthday anniversary. Langford is a product of Nova Scotia, where he was born March 4, 1886.

The "Tar Baby," as he is familiarly known, is one of the veterans of the ring, notwithstanding that he is comparatively young in years. He began fighting at the age of 16, and consequently he has a ring career of a dozen years to his credit. During this period he has engaged in more than 300 battles. He made his early reputation as a welter-weight and in recent years has faced practically all of the middleweight and heavyweight fighters of reputation on both sides of the Atlantic and in the antipodes.

Langford expects to engage in a ten-round boxing match in New York next week with Jack Blackburn, who is about to resume activity after an absence of several years from the ring. Some ten years ago, when Blackburn was in his prime, he and Langford met on five or six different occasions, each contest resulting in a draw.

After the Blackburn contest Langford will go to Kenosha, Wis., where he is matched to meet Carl Morris at the end of this month. After several other bouts now in prospect he will return to Paris in April to renew his efforts to bring about a match with Jack Johnson for the world's championship.

MARTHA WASHINGTON CANDIES

The very best and highest quality of candy making materials without adulteration enter into the making of these famous candies. This is all hand moulded and dipped into these pure, wholesome and refreshing confections that have become famous throughout the length and breadth of the land.

Martha Washington candies are different from Candies most folks know. The methods and formulas of the regular factory have no place here. The commercial spirit that prevails where things are made on a large scale is foreign to the thoughts of this quaint place. The Candies are simple and wholesome. Every box made up is of importance and has had individual attention. The home-made feature Martha Washington Candies everywhere prevails. This is true of even the way the candies are packed. There is none of the gaudiness of the shop but just a simple beauty about the box that gives one a sense that it contains something of real worth.

NAME CHICAGO MAN AS COUNSEL OF INDUSTRIAL RELATIONS BODY

WASHINGTON, March 4.—W. O. Thompson of Chicago, was appointed today counsel of the United States commission on industrial relations. Chairman Walsh made this announcement with the explanation that Mr. Thompson an expert on labor problems, would accompany the commission and take an active part in the hearings soon to be conducted in different parts of the country to develop a basis for an effort to improve relations between employers and employees.

Mr. Walsh discussing work of the commission, said its efforts would be centered upon devising and putting into operation machinery through which labor disputes can be amicably settled. The present industrial conditions, he said, furnished a problem imperatively demanding immediate solution.

LYNNVILLE.

Mrs. Oscar Henderson, daughter Lela, and son Lloyd of Jacksonville were visiting Mrs. Henderson's daughter, Mrs. Roy Grady, a few days last week, returning Sunday.

The many friends of Mrs. John Dod, worth will be glad to know that she is improving in a very gratifying manner under the care of Dr. Haskell.

The entertainment and box supper which the members of the Loyal Daughters class of the Christian church had planned for this week, is indefinitely postponed, owing to the bad condition of the roads and the mumps, which are in our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Vanbeber of Jacksonville visited with Mrs. Vanbeber's mother, Mrs. Kitchen, over Sunday.

Mrs. Kitchen is entertaining the mumps.

The children of Fred J. Schoenfeld are among those who have the mumps.

Mrs. Ross Stainforth and Foster Sheppard are confined at their homes with the mumps.

Owing to the extremely bad condition of the roads, the services at both our churches were not well attended last Sunday.

Mrs. Verne Hunley is quite sick, also Will Hunley is taking care of a very severe cold.

The Odd Fellows enjoyed a splendid meeting Monday night, after regular work they had an oyster supper among themselves.

New York, March 4.—Colonel George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, was tonight presented by the civic forum with a medal for "distinguished public service" the first to be awarded by that institution.

Carnegie Hall, where the meeting took place was filled to its capacity. Colonel Goethals was given an enthusiastic greeting when the presentation took place and in a brief speech thanked the forum and paid a tribute to his subordinates.

IS CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Russell, Minn., March 4.—Louis Johnson is under arrest here charged with nearly killing Mrs. C. E. McRae in her grocery store in Minneapolis and brutally beating Elmer Almquist a boy customer, last Saturday.

The prisoner made a confession, according to the police. He said, the officers claim, that he was married on the day before the assault to Miss Bertha Strum in Minneapolis and that his object was to secure money to bring his wife here where he formerly lived.

INVESTIGATE CAUSE OF FIRE.

St. Louis, Mo., March 4.—The police and fire departments tonight began an investigation into the cause of the fire which early this morning resulted in the death of a fireman and damage to property estimated at $100,000. This was the fourth early morning fire of unknown origin discovered during as many days within a radius of four blocks in the heart of the business district. The fires have cost the lives of two firemen, the serious injury of a dozen others and property damage aggregating $1,000,000.

HOLD TWO HEATED DEBATES.

Peoria, Ill., March 4.—Two heated debates, one on the proposition of loaning $150,000 to International organization of mine workers and the other on a re-organization of the Illinois association and the abolition of the state executive board, occupied the sessions of the Illinois Mine Workers today. The first debate was continued from yesterday and was not decided until early in the afternoon. The outcome was that secretary McDonald was supported in his resolution to take a referendum vote of the membership of the state organization. The referendum vote finally was favored almost unanimously. Adjournment was taken before the second debate was settled.

DANVILLE BLACK-

SMITH SUICIDES

Danville, Ill., March 4.—"I have studied everything over. I have come to the point where I think I have nothing to live for," said a note to his wife written today by William Barnes, a blacksmith, before sending a bullet through his heart. His wife is believed to have caused his suicide.

DISCUSS TELEPHONE MATTERS.

Springfield, Ill., March 4.—A conference has been called by the State Public Utilities Commission to be held in this city, Thursday, March 19. A general discussion of telephone matters and problems is the plan. All persons or corporations owning or operating or interested in telephone systems are expected to be present.

AT THE GRAND.

The performance of Charles Dillingham's "Romance" Wednesday evening at the Grand Opera House was fairly well attended and many comments highly complimentary to this latest play of Edward H. Sheldon were heard from the Jacksonville playgoers who had the good fortune to be present. Although young in years, Mr. Sheldon is old in experience as a writer of interesting plays and "Romance" is but a fitting climax to a successful series of dramatic works beginning with "Salvation Nell," and including "The High Road" and the "Princess Zim-Zim." Charles Dillingham is a master of the playwright's art and the aptitude of his company for heavy comedy was apparent at the first rise of the curtain. Their rendition of "Romance" the story of the love of a young clergyman for a beautiful Italian prima donna held the continuous attention of each auditor and the happy ending in the epilogue leaves the audience with a feeling of subtle gratification by reason of another triumph of "the greatest thing in the world."

Miss Doris Keene was the star in the original company which produced "Romance" with such marked success in both New York and Chicago last year and her work was described by the best critics as exhibiting splendid ability. Miss Keene has withdrawn temporarily, at least, from the stage and rumor has it that she is to become the wife of Howard Gould, who originally gave the neat sum of $50,000 to secure the rights to "Romance." Be that as it may, Miss Gertrude Morrisini is a worthy successor to Miss Keene and has all the intensity of dramatic power and the subtlety of feeling which the character of Mme. Margarita Cavallini requires. The cast includes other well known names and Jacksonville was fortunate indeed in having the opportunity to witness such a production.

Milk from the Jacksonville creamery is prepared by the best known processes. It is pure.

CHARGED WITH BOOTLEGGING.

Amos Sutton was arrested Wednesday by Officers McGinnis and Tuttle, charged with violating the local option law. Sutton when searched at the police station had on his person, four quarts of whiskey, a pint of whiskey and one quart of gin. He had been to New Berlin, and was arrested as he left a Wabash train.

FOREST NOTES.

Canada has 23,000,000 acres in timber reserves, as compared with 187,000,000 acres in the national forests of the United States.

Apple wood is the favorite material for ordinary saw handles, and some goes into so-called briar pipes.

New Jersey has a timbered area of about 2,000,000 acres, on which the timber is worth about $8,500,000 on the stump. It is mainly valuable for cordwood.

Many of the forest fires attributed to railroads are not caused by sparks from locomotives, but by cigar and cigarette butts thrown from smoking car windows.

Port Oxford cedar of the Pacific coast, recently tried as a substitute for English willow in the manufacture of artificial limbs, has been found unsatisfactory. While it is light enough, it is too coarse and brittle.

As an experiment, the supervisor of the Beaverhead national forest is stripping the bark from the bases of a number of lodgepole pine trees at various periods before they are to be cut for telephone poles. This girdling causes the trees to exude resin, and it is desired to find what effect this may have as a preservative treatment for the poles.

BUILDING UP THE SOIL.

Frank I. Mann, who came to Jacksonville yesterday in accordance with arrangements made by Arthur M. Masters is a preacher of the need of soil building who practices what he believes on his own big farm near Gilman. Mr. Mann is a successful farmer who has combined scientific and practical methods until his farm today is said to be about the most productive in the whole state. He is simple and unostentatious in his manner and when he gives an opinion it is usually because somebody has asked for it. He has made a study of soils and what can be done to improve them and rather than a sense of duty than from any other motive is ready to tell anyone who asks what his experiences have been and just what methods he has employed.

Mr. Masters who brought Mr. Mann here yesterday had the purpose in view of increasing the productivity of the broad Masters acres by having this successful farmer and scientist tell his tenants just what has been done on the Mann farm near Gilman. Thus far the matter was a business proposition but when Mr. Masters widened his circle and invited in as many as his home would accommodate to hear Mr. Mann's suggestions, he did something which will result in good to the whole county. Many of the suggestions made by the speaker yesterday can be read in books and agricultural papers but to have a man who has used the methods successfully for years tell of them, has a much greater effect. The men who were Mr. Mann's auditors own lands in varying parts of the county and as a result of the suggestions made no doubt there will be many beginnings of soil betterment. The final influence of such a meeting will be widespread. One well known farmer present in commenting on the gathering said that much more good would result from such informal discussions and such gatherings by invitation than could come from a general public meeting.

Plain Speech

BY WALT MASON

Old Ebenezer Jimpson Jinks takes pride in saying what he thinks. "I do not mince my words," says he, "but speak my mind out, bold and free; and if I do not like a gent, I make it plainly evident; I air my views to beat the band, and people know just where I stand." He takes a foolish pride, methinks does Ebenezer Jimpson Jinks, in being rude and rough of speech, but few regard him as a peach. He keeps his neighbors hot and sore, and they denounce him as a bore. "We'd pay the freight," they often say, "if he would only move away!" And people dodge him on the street; they hate to hear old Jinks repeat "his honest views" on this and that which views are spoken through his hat. When he steps up to join a crowd, you'd think a cold and clammy shroud had fallen on that bunch of men, who all disperse, to meet again when there's no Jinks to give the blues expounding "his straightforward views." If you would have a grist of friends you'll bear in mind that friendship ends, and cordial feeling slinks behind, when you begin to "speak your mind."

FUNERAL OF DR. SANFORD HELD WEDNESDAY

Large Company Assembled at Westminster to Honor His Memory.

The funeral of the late Dr. Geo. H. Sanford was conducted at Westminster church Wednesday afternoon in the presence of a good number of sympathetic friends and relatives. Rev. L. H. Davis, pastor of the church, had charge in the beginning and then followed the beautiful ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Mrs. W. T. Brown played and Miss Ainslie Moore sang most beautifully a number of selections, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Abide With Me," "Nearer My God to Thee." The pastor read three selections from the scriptures, the ever welcome and beautiful 23d psalm, "The Lord is My Shepherd, I Shall Not Want"; a portion of the 14th chapter of John, containing a part of the Master's last words to his disciples, when he bade them "Let not your hearts be troubled" and finally a part of the 7th chapter of Revelation which contains the account of the apostle's vision of the throne arrayed in white, standing around the throne after coming up through great tribulation. "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them nor any heat for the Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

The reverend gentleman's remarks were very suitable to the occasion. He told eloquently of the man who had bravely gone forth in times of danger to fight for his country and though it cost him perpetual illness, he never complained or counted to the cost too great. He spoke of the Christian character of the man who was also a soldier of the cross and faithful to his duty to his Maker.

The entire address was eloquent and full of sympathetic tenderness for the bereaved widow and relatives.

Then followed the beautiful ritual of the Grand Army of the Republic with John A. Schaub, commander and Lycurgus Goheen, chaplain. A good number of comrades attended the services and paid a last tribute of respect to a brave member of their ranks.

A great many beautiful flowers attested the esteem in which the deceased was held by those who knew him. The flowers were kindly cared for by Mrs. Gertrude Richardson, Mrs. W. D. Doying and Mrs. Will Floreth. At the close of the impressive services, the remains were borne to Diamond Grove cemetery by Comrades C. Riggs Taylor, John E. Wright, George Paul, Henry S. Stevenson, C. D. McDougall and Benjamin Wood.

TEAMS ARE READY FOR TOURNAMENT

FIFTEEN COLLEGES TO COMPETE IN BASKETBALL.

Preliminaries Will Be Held Friday and Saturday at Peoria and Decatur—Close Races Expected Among Leaders—Finals to be in Bloomington Week Later.

The big week to which the fifteen schools in the Illinois Minor College Conference have been looking forward to is here. Friday afternoon at 2:30, eight schools in the northern district and seven in the southern will begin the tests to eliminate all but four teams in each division. These eight teams will meet at Bloomington one week later to decide the champion.

The teams in the northern district follow: Bradley, Augustana, Lombard, Hedding, Normal, Carthage, William & Vashti and Eureka.

The southern teams are Millikin, Wesleyan, Illinois College, McKendree, Lincoln, Shurtleff and Charleston Normal.

Who will be the four winners in each division? That is not nearly so hard a question as picking the first four teams in the final tourney. These are the teams picked by some to stay in to the finals:

Northern—Bradley, Normal, Augustana and Hedding, eliminating Lombard, Carthage, W. & V. and Eureka.

Southern—Millikin, Wesleyan, Illinois College and Lincoln, eliminating Charleston Normal, Shurtleff and McKendree.

Tournament "dope", however, rarely gets by without some "spills." Lombard has been showing some class lately, losing to the strong Knox college team by only two points last week. The strength of this team is not known as it has participated in no inter-conference games. W. & V. may also give Hedding a hard fight for a place on the quartet.

In the southern title a better battle is expected to select the four best teams. McKendree is expected to give the team that places fourth a run for its money.

Each team will have a chance to play again after losing one game, the fact that Millikin and Wesleyan are pitted against each other in their first game, and Bradley and Augustana also meeting in their first game, it does not necessarily mean that the team which wins the first game will win the tourney. It is possible that some of the coaches may not try hard to win the district tourney, preferring to reserve some of their good plays for the finals. Only the weaker teams may turn loose everything they have in order to win a place.

Normal has the best looking team in the northern half, with Bradley and Augustana close contenders. Millikin and Wesleyan are tied for honors for the season and stand first in the southern half. Millikin will have the advantage of playing on its own floor, an advantage Wesleyan will have in the finals. Center Hart, Wesleyan's star youngster, is down in his studies but it is hardly likely that he won't appear in both tournaments.

The northern schedule contains more games due to the fact that there is one more school in this division. Lincoln, in the southern division, drew a bye in the first round.

With very few exceptions all the teams are primed for a hard fight, that is all but the hopeless tail-enders, and three pretty tournaments are assured.

WELCOME WORLD'S TOURISTS.

New York, March 4.—New York expects to entertain a big collection of baseball enthusiasts at the end of this week, when the world's tourists will be welcomed home from their long trip. A special train carrying several hundred Chicago fans is due to reach today tomorrow and other large delegations are reported about to start from Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh, Washington and other cities.

The Baltimore hotel has been selected at headquarters for the demonstration of welcome, and the touring Giants and White Sox will be taken there after their arrival on the Lusitania on Friday. On that day there will be meetings of the officials and club owners of the National and American leagues and it is likely the gathering will be taken advantage of to hold meetings of other baseball organizations. On Saturday night virtually all of the men who control the national game, together with an army of players, sporting writers and invited guests, with gather about the festal board at the Biltmore at the great banquet arranged in honor of the globe-trotting baseball teams.

Eczema Gone! Acne, Tetter,
Rash, Pimples, Carbuncles, Boils—Banished!

It is certainly remarkable how quickly the action of S. S. S. the famous blood purifier, shows itself in the skin.

There is one ingredient in S. S. S. which peculiarly stimulates cellular or glandular activity to select from the blood, or from the fine network of blood vessels in the skin, those elements which it requires for regeneration.

Thus pimples, acne, eczema, lupus, or any other blood condition that attacks the skin or seeks an outlet through the skin is met with the antidotal effect of S. S. S.

When you ask for S. S. S. look out for the common trick of sell you something else. Don't be misled.

SOIL BUILDING IS FRANK MANN'S THEME

EXPERT MAKES STRONG ARGUMENT FOR SEEKING MORE FERTILITY.

Lays More Emphasis on Adding Certain Elements to the Soil Than He Does on Working Methods—Tells Experiences on His Own Farm Near Gilman—Came to Jacksonville as Guest of A. M. Masters and Especially to Address Tenants on the Masters Farms.

Frank I. Mann of Gilman, soil expert, farmers institute worker, successful farmer was in Jacksonville Wednesday the guest of Arthur M. Masters. Mr. Mann came especially to give advice and inspiration to tenants on the Masters farms and after a conference with them during a dinner at Masters' home addressed a still larger company of persons interested in agriculture.

Mr. Mann owns five hundred acres of land near Gilman, all under a high state of cultivation and the farm is often referred to as the most productive in the state of Illinois, size considered. Mr. Mann combines the scientific with the practical and his slogan briefly stated is that by crop rotation and the addition of calcium and phosphorus in the right quantities to build the soils up even beyond virgin richness. Mr. Mann is plain spoken. He does not assume to know it all but simply tells what he has found to be true by experience on his own land. He said yesterday that it embarrassed him to be introduced as the best farmer in the state, that he made no such claims.

The Masters land includes about two thousand acres mostly in the vicinity of Murrayville and Woodson and a plot on display yesterday indicated just where the farms are and the names of the tenants.

The tenants are: C. F. Wright, who has the Masters Mound farm, east of Woodson; J. N. Dunham who has the Greene county farm; John Loneragan, C. E. Loneragan, James Myers, Harry Tarzwell, John Hull, Vernon Baker, who operate the Masters home place with A. M. Masters.

In addition to this there were numerous samples of corn borrowed for the occasion from the Farmers State Bank & Trust Company, a sample of alfalfa raised on one of the Masters farms and a photograph of the field in which it grew. All about the spacious rooms which were at the disposal of the company were placards giving various important suggestions relative to right principles for successful farm operation. Mr. Masters had these placards painted especially for the occasion and among them were the following:

Some Suggestive Placards.
Science in farming means knowledge, nothing more and nothing less. It does not mean theory unsupported by facts. To plow the land and plant the seed and cultivate the crop is art or practice. To know what the soil and air contain and what the crops require is science. Practical and scientific farming go hand in hand. It is impossible to farm intelligently, or profitably, without combining the two.

Work and knowledge and a stronger team than work and work. I believe in plowing corn with the surface cultivator. Don't cut the roots.

Alfalfa and live stock on every farm.

Create a soil as well as a bank reserve.

The farm that won't wear out is the kind of a farm.

The Illinois system of permanent fertility is returning to the soil each year as much plant food as has been removed by the different crops.

It takes more than a scoop shovel or a corn crib to make the hog business profitable.

Among the persons present yesterday in addition to those already mentioned were the following: Dr. J. W. Hargrove, J. W. Hubble, Walter Avers, W. W. Carter, A. L. French, E. E. Crabtree, Charles Hadden, F. E. Farrell, Frank Drury, Frank J. Hein, Harry Kitter, H. G. and C. F. Strang, C. E. James, Charles Ashbaker, Frank Orear, George Orear, Charles A. Rowe, J. Parker Doane, R. I. Crabtree, E. R. and Howard Stevenson, Ernest B. Hein, Lloyd Brown, Bert Way, C. H. Story, W. S. Camp, W. T. Tarzwell, C. Justus Wright, Edward Strang, Charles Ashbaker and a few others.

At two o'clock Mr. Masters briefly referred to his purpose in arranging for the occasion and gave some views emphasizing the importance of agricultural study. He then introduced Mr. Mann and referred to the success which has attended the speakers efforts in farming. Mr. Masters said:

"Gentlemen: This is get together day for better farming on the Masters' land. I welcome each and every one of you this afternoon. I am especially pleased to have my own men here, men who are partners with me in the business of farming, both grain and live stock. We have some large problems before us. Our land is badly worn after a continuous cropping of many years. I believe my men are both willing and capable in helping to restore the lost plant food, once they know how to do it. I don't hesitate to state that I have as good men associated with me on my different farms as there are to be found in Morgan county, or any other county.

Problems Are Knotty.
The land owner who has been renting his land has been accused of being a soil robber. It is said that he would not give the renter an opportunity to build up the land. I have been guilty of this in the past, but it has been through ignorance. We did not know any better. The owners of this corn belt land have some knotty problems confronting them, and I, for one, realize that something has to be done and done at once. Our incomes are diminishing to an alarming degree, and there is nothing that will make a man hunt the cause any quicker than this. This put me to thinking seriously, and I commenced to study the problem carefully from a number of angles, and I am convinced absolutely that the trouble rests entirely in the lost fertility of our soil. Now, what to do, how to restore this lost plant food, and how to do it on a permanent and profitable basis, is the problem that is before us, and the one that has brought us together today.

"Work and knowledge is a better team than work and work. Some one has said that agriculture is of all industrial pursuits the richest in facts and the poorest in its comprehension. Science in farming means knowledge, nothing more and nothing less. It does not mean theory unsupported by facts. To plow the land, plant the seed, and cultivate the crop is art or practice, and the art of farming has been known a thousand years before Christ. But to know what the soil and air contain and what the crops require is science. Practical and scientific farming go hand in hand. It is impossible to farm intelligently or profitably without combining the two.

Old Order Reversed.
"I once heard Professor C. G. Hopkins of our university, in answer to a question if a good four year rotation would keep up the fertility of our soil, say, 'Gentlemen, you just as well rotate your pocket book around the members of your family and expect it to come back with more money in it.' To my mind the old time farmer who mined this rich virgin soil, twenty-five, thirty, forty years ago, was a thorough pure and simple. He plowed his land, planted his seed and cultivated his crops, but he did not know why his crops grew or what they lived upon. He only knew that certain things happened each year. Why? Because they had happened the year before. And this same old-time farmer is now calling the man who knows how and why, the scientific farmer, a theorist. He has just got it backward entirely. But the condition of things has changed now. Plowing, planting and cultivating with a plentiful rainfall does not produce the goods. The plant food in the soil is exhausted.

But now, hear me, men. I want you to get this. This disease is not incurable. We are now living in a new era of better farming both from a practical and scientific standpoint. We now know absolutely, beyond the question of doubt, how to restore this lost plant food, and do it permanently and economically, thanks to our experimental stations and a few master minds that are studying scientific agriculture. We have this authentic knowledge lying at our very door. All we need to do is to take advantage of it. We now know how to grow alfalfa successfully, the greatest money making crop on the farm. We now know that the silo has solved the problems of the cattle feeding industry. We now know that by applying common limestone on our soil we can raise maximum crops of clover, three and four tons to the acre. We also know that if we put on rock phosphates and plow it under with this clover we can raise bumper crops of corn, wheat and oats, and do it year after year, and the land will grow richer instead of poorer.

War Time Prices Now

And then again, the price of grain and live stock make it exceedingly attractive and profitable. I recall hearing my father and grandfather speak of the war-time prices, back in the '60's. We are now able to enjoy these prices in times of peace.

"Mr. Mann, who is with us here today, is a very successful, practical, scientific farmer. He is a man who has done and is now doing big things in farming. The land owners of Illinois owe a great deal to Mr. Mann, for he was one of the very first men to adopt the Illinois system of permanent fertility. He is here to tell you what the essential elements of plant food are to grow maximum crops each year. He will tell you how to apply and supply them. He will tell you what he has done on his own five hundred acres of land in the last ten or twelve years. In hundreds of dollars and cents. When I first heard Mr. Mann speak at a farmer's institute he was introduced as the owner of the richest and best farmed five hundred acres of land in the state of Illinois. Do you think he could have accomplished this without combining the scientific with the practical? I will leave the answer with you.

"I now take great pleasure in introducing to you Mr. Frank I. Mann of Gilman, Illinois, who will speak to us this afternoon on 'Soil Fertility'.

Mr. Mann said in part:

Growing More Grain.
"To grow better grain and more of it is the question we are all interested in and the one question which underlies all farm problems. I have had a farming experience of 34 years and on my farm there has been a regular rotation of clover with other crops every four years during that time. Only during the last 12 or 15 years can I claim to have made a careful study of the exact needs and requirements of the soil. I have tried dried blood and various kinds of fertilizer and various systems of cultivation. I plowed several fields of virgin land and never found that it produced in any large area more than 60 bushels of corn to the acre. In some virgin land there is enough nitrogen to produce 350 bushels of corn to the acre but there is not enough phosphorus to accomplish this thing. I have tried plowing deep, and I have tried plowing shallow and I believe that while we might better the results about 15 per cent by more intensive farming, that the results we desire must come from building up and feeding the soil. There is not manure enough for our land and so we must get some substitute. These three things which manure contains giving it fertility value are organic matter, nitrogen and phosphorus, and we must find some way of getting these elements into our soil. Anything which rots in the soil will furnish organic matter, liberate the foods in the soil and make the soil lively.

"There is not enough nitrogen in clover to last through more than four years because nitrogen is not stable and has tendency to shift about. So manure decomposes rapidly and is left to stand losses much of its value. The only way to add nitrogen to the soil is through the use of legumes such as clover and alfalfa, either one of which will bring desired results.

"My first seeding of alfalfa was made in the spring of 1900. We secured a good stand, and it started off nicely, but made little growth later in the season, and by fall was not very thrifty. During the following winter, Dr. Hopkins told me of the results at his experiment station from inoculation with Kansas alfalfa dirt, and I had a few hundred pounds of alfalfa dirt shipped me from the Experiment Station in the spring. This was applied to the alfalfa field in the spring except a small portion of the field which was left without dirt treatment for sake of comparison. By fall the alfalfa on the part that was left untreated with dirt was all dead, but the rest of the field, about four tons of hay per acre. This field remained in alfalfa for seven years and averaged five tons hay per acre annually.

Late Alfalfa Seeding.

"Later seedings have been made in August or early in September. I have seeded clover stubble, oat stubble and potato ground with about equal results. Ground is plowed as early as possible, and is afterwards disked every few days till ready for seeding. Before seeding, the field loaded with some manure is spread, on top of manure is spread limestone to make a ton or more per acre, and on top of the limestone is loaded enough dirt from old alfalfa field to make a few hundred pounds per acre. If sweet clover dirt is more convenient we may use that instead of alfalfa dirt. This distribution is immediately followed with the disk to get the inoculated dirt incorporated with the soil.

"The amount of seed sown depends somewhat on the quality of the seed. I have used about twenty pounds per acre. The manner of covering the seed is dependent on the conditions. Sometimes it is covered by running a smoothing harrow over the ground several times, and sometimes it is covered by running the disk not very deep.

"As a gleaming crop alfalfa probably has no superior. When land that is badly infested with crab grass, foxtail, pigeon grass, horse case, sand, lupine, velvet or button weed, running vines or any kind, and many other weeds, is kept in alfalfa for a few years the weeds gradually disappear.

"As a fee alfalfa is superior to clover. The writer has many times changed the feed of milk cows from good clover hay to alfalfa with always accompanying increase in milk yield, and when the change was made from alfalfa to clover it has been followed by a decline in milk yield.

"I have heard it said that alfalfa would injure ground for other crops to follow, but we have grown the following crops on land that stood seven years in alfalfa. It was given a good application of phosphate before sowing the alfalfa and again before plowing the alfalfa stubble. First years after alfalfa, 20 tons of corn silage; second year, 115 bushels corn per acre; third year, 88 1/2 bushels oats per acre; fourth year, 52 1/2 bushels wheat per acre.

What Clover Needs.

"Clover is a fundamental soil builder. In some places they use cow peas mainly further south in the state where they cannot get clover to grow well. What clover needs to make a good growth is plenty of calcium which is obtained from limestone. One hundred pounds of limestone will produce 41 pounds of calcium. I should say on all the naturally drained soils of Illinois where lime stone is not shown in the outcroppings that there should be application of lime stone as a fertilizer. I know of fields where two tons per acre of limestone was applied four years ago and now the effect is all gone. That is, about 1,000 pounds of lime stone a year is consumed by an acre of land of that character. By proper handling it is possible to force clover to grow largely on the nitrogen taken from the air without using up that which is in the soil. It often happens that to plant clover on a field and then cut and remove it does more damage to the land than the clover does. That is, so much nitrogen is taken from the soil that it is robbed. If the clover were fed on the land and the manure returned then the benefit would be received.

Best Seed the Cheapest.

"To make a clover crop a success you need limestone, phosphorus and enough plants. The best seed is the cheapest for that which is immature or shriveled up will not grow. A large percentage of the seed planted does not take permanent root and so the results desired it is proper to sow plenty of seed. I often use a mixture of red clover, alsac, alfalfa, timothy and of this combination one bushel seeds six acres. I believe in inoculation for clover seed if a field has not been producing it for some years. I use the glue method of inoculation. A pound of glue with three gallons of water makes a solution which is sprinkled over the seed. Then a pound of inoculated dirt to the bushel is shaken over it and each seed has some little particle attached to it. This more than inoculation by the scattering of soil, that is it is more quickly accomplished. By the other method some parts are pretty sure not to be inoculated and will take months for the other parts to affect them.

Mr. Mann then quoted figures to show what he had accomplished on his own farm by the use of phosphate. He said that he had 1,000 pounds per acre per year. The average cost of phosphate he has used has been $8 per ton. He said that experience had shown that the use of phosphates alone would not help the crop on worn soils. The way to build them up is by the combined use of limestone and phosphates which will bring to pass the chemical action desired. The speaker in answer to a question emphasized the need for something other than mere working of the soil to get results. He said that if a soil is properly built up that the crops will be pretty certain to come whereas a soil not in proper condition will not respond to the hardest kind of work. It is the phosphorus which fills out the heart of the corn or the oats and the lack of it or the supply has everything to do with the weight of the grain. A soil analysis made in a laboratory has value in that it will show the general deficiencies which exist in that particular locality. If the corn stalks in a field develop largely and still show no ears of corn it is because phosphorus is lacking. It must be borne in mind that moisture for corn is not food but that it carries in it the elements which do feed the plant just as in slop given to pigs the food is that which the water or moisture contains.

In answer to a question Mr. Mann replied that there were no records to show the relative value of corn, grown especially for silage purposes, that is with large stocks, by comparison with corn grown especially for the number of ears. There were various other questions asked and answers given which it is not possible to take up at this time.

Altogether it was a very profitable gathering and will without doubt result in a great deal of good in encouraging farmers in all parts of the county to study soil conditions.

WORLD'S LATEST FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

INCREASED DEMAND FOR STOCKS REVEALS SCANTINESS OF SUPPLY

Although Buying Was Not Heavy,
an Advance of Fair Proportions
Is Achieved—Commission House
Business is on a Larger Scale.

(By Associated Press.)
New York, March 4.—An increased demand for stocks today revealed the scantiness of the floating supply and although buying was not heavy, an advance of fair proportions was achieved. Commission house business was on a larger scale. Trading grew quieter after the first hour but prices held up with firmness.

Despite lack of outside interest in the market, investment brokers said that purchasing of dividend paying stocks had been going on steady-ly. The steel stocks were especially strong today. Absorption of these stocks was stimulated by the strong showing of the February statistics.
The production of pig-iron last month was placed at a daily average of 67, 455 tons, an increase of almost 7,000 tons over the January average. On March 1st, the number of blast furnaces in operation was 21 greater than a month previously.

Weakness appeared in a few spots.
New Haven touched a new low record at 65½ but later rose with the general market. American woolen's poor annual report was reflected in a drop of more than 2 points in the common and preferred. Fears of the effect of the new sugar schedule of the tariff law, which became operative March 1st, led to the selling of these shares. Beet sugar and American Sugar common and preferred sagged sharply.

For the first time in several days the market was not handicapped by pressure from abroad. American stocks held steady in the London market, and there was little European selling here.

OLDEST METHODIST BISHOP

DEAD AT HOME IN EAST

Dr. Thomas Bowman Had Nearly Reached the Age of Ninety-Seven—Known as Grand Old Man of the Faith.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat gives the following notice of the death of Bishop Bowman: The oldest bishop in the Methodist Episcopal church in America, in all its history, Bishop Thomas Bowman, died yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in Orange, N. J., in the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Caldwell. If Bishop Bowman had lived until July 15 he would have been 97 years old. He has been on the decline for a year, although still rational and in possession of his faculties.

Not only did Bishop Bowman reach this advanced age, but he has one of the longest records in Methodist Episcopal church history for active service as a bishop. From 1872 to 1898 he served, holding annual conferences in this country and in Europe. During all this period he resided in St. Louis. Sixty-one years of his life were spent in active church service. Upon his retirement in 1898 he went to Evanston to live with the Caldwells, and later moved with them to Orange, N. J.

Bishop Bowman, who was affectionately known as the Grand Old Man of the Faith, had the distinction in 1864-65 of being chaplain of the United States senate, when Lincoln was president. The bishop was known widely as an educator before he was raised to the episcopal rank. He was president for fourteen years of Asbury college, in Greencastle, Ind., now De Pauw university, and before that time had been president of Dickinson seminary, in Williamsport, Pa.

Born in Berwick, Pa.

He was born in Berwick, Pa., and received his education at Wilbraham academy, Mass., and Casenovia seminary, in New York. He studied law for one year under the noted Judge Jeremiah Black of Pennsylvania and was licensed to practice law. He did not follow this profession, however, but turned to the ministry, taking his first pastorate in 1837, and serving continuously from that time forward.

Bishop Bowman married Miss Matilda Hartman of York, Pa., and they had a family of eleven children. Seven of these are still living. They are: T. G. Bowman of Los Angeles, T. M. and C. G. Bowman of St. Louis, S. B. Bowman of Denver, C. B. Bowman of Chattanooga, Tenn., Mrs. B. B. Caldwell of Orange, N. J., and Mrs. Lucy Smith of Baltimore. There are a number of grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

The funeral will take place Friday afternoon in Greencastle, Ind., his former home.

Efficient in All Branches.

Bishop Bowman had a wide circle of friends in all denominations in St. Louis. Methodists have remembered him with a church, the Bowman, at Grand and Carter avenues, which recently erected a new house of worship. He was a man who did not not specialize particularly, but was considered efficient in evangelistic, educational, pastoral and administrative ability. While a union man, his breadth of sympathy was so great that he had many close friends of southern affiliation. It was so with other religious denominations, all of whom honored him. The bishop was a staunch Methodist, and believed that this church had many points in its favor above all the other denominations. One of these, which he favored strongly, was the Methodist system of placing churches and pastors by episcopal authority. He often pointed out that this led to the happy result of no church without a pastor, and no pastor out of a job.

QUICKLY PUTS A QUIETUS ON A COUGH OR COLD

You save money when you buy Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, because only a few doses are needed to check a cold, stop a cough, and soothe the raw inflamed surfaces. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has always been a favorite family medicine with particular people, because of the entire absence of opiates or harmful drugs, because it is mild and laxative. Instead of being constipating and leaving delicate persons and children take it without its ever disturbing the stomach in any way. It has superior healing qualities, and is quickly and thoroughly effective for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, la grippe and bronchial coughs, stuffy wheezy breathing, and for any sore or inflamed condition of the throat and lungs. So many people who do not cough at all during the day time, find themselves unable to sleep at night owing to a tickling throat and hacking cough. A few sips of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound will entirely relieve this condition. It is also excellent for the chronic coughs of elderly people. In 25c, 50c and $1.00 sizes. The genuine is in a yellow package. Remember the name, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and do not accept any cheap imitations. For sale by City Drug Co., J. A. Obermeyer, Prop.—Adv.

"WHO'S WHO?"

The Forum Literary Society will present the comedy "Who's Who?" at the high school Friday evening, March 6th. Not who's who and why, but Who's Who?—nobody knows. Great confusion is aroused by an English valet and the "model young bachelor," Simionides Swanhopper. The play is to be given as one of the regular programs of the society and all the friends of the high school are invited. The cast is as follows: Mr. Bloomfield Brambleton, Roy Sorrels; Cicely (his daughter) June Pond; Matilda Jane (his maid-servant) Zella Benson; Simionides Swanhopper (the model young bachelor) Vernon Quintal; Lawrence Lavender (the valet) Kenneth Berryman. Admission free.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

When the Panama canal is completed and the first ship is piloted through from Cristobal to Paitia or the other way, it will be as near "fool proof" as it is possible to make it. In every possible way has the safe navigation of the great waterway been provided for by the construction of almost countless aids to navigation.

The first thing the pilot of an incoming vessel sees ahead of him as he reaches the entrance of the canal is a huge light tower which in conjunction with another points the way toward the first set of locks at either end. On either side of him as he proceeds he finds innumerable lighted and unlighted buoys and beacons that indicate the limits of the channel.

The locks themselves will be as brilliantly lighted at the "Great White Way" itself and the passage of a large ship, herself brilliantly lighted from stem to stern with electricity, is expected to become one of the most spectacular features of an interoceanic voyage. Then comes the passage through the canal with its numerous range light towers on either bank its beacons and buoys, all of them showing either a white, red or green light.

There are along the canal 20 acetylene lighted range towers, 12 electric lighted ones, 45 electric lighted beacons, 3 acetylene lighted beacons and about 57 acetylene lighted buoys. The range lights mark a line 125 feet on either side of the middle of the channel, forming a lane 250 feet wide. Floating on the water along the side lines of the channel are the acetylene buoys, and on the shore marking the various tangents of the channel are the lighted beacons.

The approach to Colon harbor, on the Atlantic side, is lighted by the main light on Toro Point, which is visible 18 miles or more on a clear night. Then there are the beacons on the seaward ends of the two and one-half mile breakwater that protects the harbor from the high seas that usually run in the Atlantic. On the Pacific end of the canal there are numerous buoys and beacons besides the range lights that indicate the canal channel. By day the channel is not only marked by can buoys but also by 60 spar buoys and the many concrete tripodes, painted a brilliant white. By day the range light towers are easily seen, due to the brilliant white they are painted.

Nor is this all. Captain Hugh Rodman, U. S. N., superintendent of operation, has just completed establishing the locations for a number of signal towers along the canal route. They are to be used in signaling from station to station the coming and going of steamers and to arrange meeting places. The signalmen will practically functionate on the lines of the railway train dispatcher.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Sunday, March 1st, being the occasion of Sarah Morrison's (better known as "Grandma Morrison") 93rd birthday, her children, grand children and great grand children planned a surprise dinner, which was greatly enjoyed by all present. About 11 o'clock the different families arrived in "bob sleds," bringing their baskets well filled with the good things to eat. Many greetings and loving wishes were bestowed on grandma, after which she was presented with 93 roses and carnations, a flower representing each year of her age. Two of the great granddaughters presented the flowers, Miss Pauline Meyer of Beardstown, the roses and Miss Grace Rexroat of Concord the carnations, each with a message of love and best wishes for many more happy birthdays. Several letters and greetings were received from absent members of the family. Among them was one from R. Morrison, a son, of Tacoma, Wash., also two telegrams, one from Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Roberts of Buffalo, N. Y., a granddaughter, and one from Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Meyer of Reno, Nevada, another granddaughter. A number of beautiful and useful gifts were received.

The dinner was then served in the dining room, which was beautifully decorated. Just over the parlor door were the numbers 1821-1914, representing her birth and the present year. Grandma was a native of England; came to America with her father when she was nine years old; lived on a farm in Scott county until about the year 1849; then moved with her husband to the place where she still lives.

She is a woman of remarkable ability, having almost perfect use of her different senses at her advanced age.

Among the features of the dinner was a large birthday cake, with 93 candles, which was presented to her at the head of the table by four of her great grandchildren. After dinner Mr. Nickel, the photographer, took the picture of the four generations, including Grandma Morrison, her daughter, Mrs. J. M. Rexroat; granddaughter, Mrs. Cora M. Culp, and great granddaughter, Miss Irene Yeck.

The guests present were Mrs. Mattie Christman of Merritt, Ill., Mrs. Jane Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Meyer and daughters, Pauline and Wauweta, of Beardstown, Ill., Mrs. Cora M. Culp of Jacksonville and daughter, Miss Irene Yeck of Pawnee, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rexroat, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rexroat and children, Grace and James, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Rexroat, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Smith and son, Otis, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Morrison and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Morrison, all of Concord, Ill.

IF CHILD IS CROSS,

FEVERISH AND SICK

CONCORD.

Look Mother! If Tongue is Coated, Cleanse Little Bowels With "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative" and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat, sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, mother; See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Beware of any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

FIVE MINUTE CURE

IF STOMACH IS BAD

When "Pape's Diapiesin" Reaches Stomach, All Indigestion, Gas and Sourness Disappears.

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs. Pape's Diapiesin is noted for its speed in giving relief; its harmlessness; its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour gassy stomachs. Its millions of cures in indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis and other stomach trouble has made it famous the world over.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large fifty-cent case from any drug store and then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach, all such distress vanishes. Its promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Adv.

RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one of two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.—Adv.

TO PROTECT LIVE STOCK DEALERS

The State Board of Live Stock Commissioners is convinced that a large per cent of the economic losses ordinarily caused by infectious diseases of live stock, such as bovine tuberculosis, hog cholera, forage poisoning of horses, etc., can be prevented by modern sanitation. Every county in the state should be represented by one or more assistant state veterinarians competent to act officially in all matters pertaining to live stock sanitation and to advise and co-operate with the producers of live stock, in their respective localities, as to ways and means of controlling infectious diseases.

With this object in view, the board has filed a requisition with the state civil service commission, for a certified list of assistant state veterinarians whose competency shall be determined by a civil service examination; and whose reliability shall be above question.

Examinations, to determine the competency of all applicants for the proposed service, will be held on April fourth, and will be conducted by representatives of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry.

Every veterinarian in the state will be given an opportunity to qualify and all who succeed in meeting the requirements are assured official recognition by the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners, through the state veterinarian.

MAY FORM MONOPOLY

WHEN WELL REGULATED

Possibility That Such May Be General Ruling of the Utility Commission.

Springfield News: Men who have been watching the expressions of opinion by members of the new state utilities commission are convinced that the ruling of the commission yesterday in favor of a regulated monopoly in the telephone business rather than competition is but the forerunner of a general ruling affecting all public service corporations.

The commission expressed the belief that two telephone systems would not make matters better but worse for the people of a city. One system, carefully regulated and forced to give adequate service is far better than two.

That the commission will hold the same belief regarding gas, electric, heat and street car utilities is considered practically certain. It is pointed out that obviously two electric plants, each carrying overhead charges, two sets of generators, boilers, etc., cannot produce electricity as cheaply as one central plant. No matter how much competition there is, both plants cannot afford to charge less than it costs them to produce the electricity. On the other hand, with all the electricity of a plant furnished by one plant, the overhead charges would be greatly reduced and the current could be furnished at a great reduction. The only objection to a monopoly is that it is inclined to charge exorbitant rates to increase its profit, but the state utilities commission is created for the purpose of preventing this.

The commission has ample power to prevent the charging of rates that will give more than a reasonable profit.

For this reason there can be no doubt of the wisdom of one regulated plant instead of two or more competing plants.

The same is true of the other public service concerns.

Although no direct ruling has been made on this point except in the case of telephones, it is expected that a general ruling will be forthcoming as soon as the matter comes up in the nature of a petition for convenience and necessity to establish a second plant in some city.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The East Side Embroidery class met with Mrs. Walter N. Smith at her home on Spaulding place with an excellent attendance. One guest was present, Miss Turington of St. Louis.

Tuesday evening was the regular time for the March meeting of the Carlas Girls' club, but the usual procedure was not followed and the young ladies attended the show at Scott's after which they partook of a luncheon at the Batz cafe, instead of gathering at the home of one of the members as is the usual custom. A short business meeting was held after the luncheon at the cafe.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baughman south of the city, entertained the members of the Jolly Club Wednesday evening at a most pleasant social evening combined with an old fashioned oyster supper.
